GAME NOTES

BOW DOWN TO BOWERING

Coming off a tremendous first season where he was a finalist for NLL Rookie of the Year behind generational talent Jeff Teat of the New York Riptide, Vancouver Warriors defender Reid Bowering is proving that there is no sophomore slump in his game either. Bowering, who last year tied the all-time rookie record for loose balls in a single season with 214, is on pace for a stunning 252 loosies as he has 210 through the Warriors first fifteen games. The NLL season record of 245 by Geoff Snider, a faceoff legend, is now in jeopardy if Bowering can maintain his top form.

All of Bowering's loose ball pickups have come without the benefit of a single face off, where many of the leaders in this category scoop up the stats. Bowering, 24, from Coquitlam BC, is currently 4th in the league in loose balls with 210 and 2nd in blocked shots with 22. He is also among the top 10 in caused turnovers (28 – 7th). Despite his tenacity on defense, Bowering has picked up just 8 penalty minutes this year, further showing his discipline on the turf.

NEW 'BAL' GAME

It has been a week of change in Warriors country, with the team making several moves. Following his injury on January 28th, Vancouver moved forward Logan Schuss to the Season Ending Injury list. The Warriors also released long time veteran defender Justin Salt. Arguably the highest profile trade in the NLL happened on Tuesday, January 31, when Warriors Head Coach and Interim General Manager traded veteran forward Mitch Jones to the Philadelphia Wings. In return, Vancouver picked up 26-year-old defender Steph Charbonneau to help the defense right away, and a 2023 First round Pick and 2024 second round pick to stock the cupboard full of future Warriors down the road. With the departure of Jones, Cordingley and his coaching staff have awarded the 'A' worn by Jones to Keegan Bal. Bal led the team in scoring last year with 99 points (44g-55a) and leads this season with 34 goals and 53 assists for 87 points. On Wednesday, February 1, Cordingley continued making moves, bringing back veteran netminder Aaron Bold while parting ways with goalie Ethan Woods. Bold was with the Warriors for parts of two seasons between 2018-20 and is a 2x NLL Cup Champion with Saskatchewan in 2014-15 and again in 2015-16.
